

Will We See You at Pittcon This February?

Body Content:

{Company Name} is excited to announce that we'll be heading to Pittcon 2024 in San Diego, CA! From February {Dates}, look for our team who will be {debuting/showcasing innovation} at Booth {Booth Number}.

{Include unique details about your company's promotions, swag, sessions you're excited to attend, and/ or high level executives in attendance.}

Like you, we can't wait to take advantage of photo ops at the famous USS Midway Museum, San Diego Zoo, San Diego Air and Space Museum, and it's pristine beaches. But we're most excited for the chance to see all of you in person. Pittcon is one of the few annual events where we can step out from behind our screens and show you that your business is personal to us.

Leading up to the Conference and Expo, we encourage you to join the conversation with {Twitter handle} using the #Pittcon hashtag. We can't wait to see you at Booth {Booth Number} this February!

Email Tips

Try sending your emails at different times and on different days to see what gets the best engagement.

Avoid sending emails in early morning, during lunch hour, and after work because these are the times when people are likely to be cleaning out their inbox.

People are drawn to images much more commonly than text so make sure that your images are linked to URLs.

Make sure the return address is to a person, rather than to a "no-reply" email address. People like to deal with people, not automation.

Segment your database and make sure your information is targeted within each email. Your audiences might not be looking for the same thing.

Watch your use of SPAM words...once your email is in someone's spam folder, it's hard to get out of it.

Write an enticing subject line. Start with "Did you know..., Think Fast, Fear of Missing Out, Deadlines Approaching." Add in a sense of urgency.
